A Farewell To President Dickey

Another chapter in the history of the University is nearly over. Dr. Frank G. Dickey will soon leave the campus to assume his new duties as Executive Director of the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools.

Many things have taken place during his six years as president. By taking a short walk around campus we can see the results of a $31.3$3,000 building program which is nearing completion. By looking through the University catalogue we can see the many courses and fields of study that have been added, and by going through the faculty directory we can see the outstanding educators that have come to the University during Dr. Dickey's term as president. The student body has also grown. both in number and academic excellence, the honors program was started, a higher standing is now required of all students, and students are now coming to the University for an education and not for a specific.

Dr. Dickey has been challenged on many of his decisions, but he has met these challenges and thus the University has become a prestige institution.

But while handling the affairs of a large University, he has also given much of his time to the students. His door has always been open.

We regret the President's decision to step down from his office but we wish him unequalled success in his new position, knowing that he will give to it the same outstanding leadership he has given the University and knowing that he will never torget the University of Kentucky.

Lexington Should Follow

Major Cargor must be commended for their action last week which in 120 bys will make it a statutory of Lense to discriminate against persons in tusiness establishments which are open o the public.

The city has taken an important lead not only in the state, but also zeross the nation. To take a lead, however, immediately assumes that there will be followers. The first to follow Louisville's example should be Levington.

The Kentucky branch of the NAACP is seeking to have similar legislation adopted across the state. We heartily endorse such a programand recommend that the city of Levington adopt an ordinance identical to that which now exists in Louisville as a means of giving impetus to such a program on the state-wide

Lexington and the state as a whole have long approved of the equality of

The beard of Empisyille and opportunity to all kenteck ans. However, this approval has been in theory coly. He city nel the state as a whole have the long asseted action to be initiated by others. Many sections of the state are proud of the fact that they complied so quickly with the U.S. Supreme Court ruling in 1954 prohibiting the segregation cf students in public schools.

Most people, however, seem to forget the fact that even to agree to comply with such a ruling implies that there are many in the state who do not layer complete and equal opportunity for all Americans.

Oar state must rid itsell of this stigma from diately. An excellent way to accomplish this is by adopting a state law which would prohibit establishments which are ostensibly open to the public from discriminating against citizens because of race, creed, or color. A decision by the city of Lexington to adopt such an ordinance would give a great boost to such a program.

Kernel Error

1 was quoted in Tuesday's Kernel as saving the following: "I believe that these establishments should be made to integrate and that the University should have a part in it.'

EDITOR

I said nothing of the kind. Furthermore. I protest at the manner in which I had words put in my month. I was present when Miss Kinkcad made her statement and I merely endorsed what she said. By no stretch of the imagination could my words be construed in the manner of the Kernel article.

I might add, finally, that I would give my wholebearted support to any move on the part of the University or the student body to bring pressure to bear on the establishments in question, provided it was carried out in a civilized manner.

Refuses To Pay Taxes

To The Editor:

The only cogent objection that has been raised against my advocacy of civil disobedience is that I did not practice such disabedience myself. However, this abjection is no longer valid since I did not pay my taxes for 1962 and have no intention of paying them in any future year in which tax money is used for military purposes. I wet the following letter to the Internal Revenue Service on Friday, April 13, 1963 in order to express my views on this matter:

Dear Sirs:

I am filing my declaration of estimated income tax for 1963. However, my conscience requires that I retose to pay this tax. As a pacifist, I am conscientionsly opposed to war. I feel that the United States is as much at fault in the present state of international tension as Russia is. Both are following a course that leads towards the destruction of the luman race. If I support this policy of the United States financially, I too will be guilty-guilty now of supporting the policy and guilty, perhaps, in the future of mass number. My responsihility to disassociate myself from war does not end when I refuse to participate in actual killing. I would gladly pay taxes for welfare, roads, education, etc., but I can not support racial snicide. I am aware of the penalties involved in this refusal, but no penalty can release me from my responsibility to withdraw my support of

Sincerely yours,

ROBERT WAKEFIELD HALLMILL

P.S. In order to demonstrate that my intention is not just to avoid paying the money, I am sending the amount of my tax to the Pencemaker. a radical pacifist publication. A photostat of the money order is enclosed.

Hey you all, is this the place I can catch me a Northern Pike?

That Time Again

Spring is spring,

the grass is riz,

I wonder what my standing is?

That time of the year is here again speaking of exam week, not spring. The tell-tale signs are once again evident. We've used up practically all the sintan oil, the Kentucky Derby is over, spring formals have ceased, bankriptcy is just around the corner, and the bookstores are offering specials on blue books. But wait, have you pansed just once to consider how lucky we are to have a final week? Lucky for enffee, no sleep, frantic cramming? No, this is the plague cternal of any and every final week. Exam week has its merits.

If there were no final week, many of us would never know the special delights of comprehension memorization. A few of us would never know our course numbers or recognize our professors. And even worse, some of us would never know if we ever learned anything or not.

There are also secondary advantages. Dances and jam sessions might crowd the schedule of our last few days of school. We might have to keep on renting tuxedoes, buying flowers and formals without end. We might suffer over-exposure from the sim's scoreling rays by lying out on the sun porch during the last week of school. Or perhaps we might hecome waterlogged from dabbling in the lake an extensive period of time. The University might plan another spectacular weekend for us, and some of us would undoabtedly have to go to another concert.

The list could go on and on. And we wouldn't want to take up any of our reader's valuable study time, so go back to your books and consider this thought . .

Aren't you glad you have final week? Don't you wish everyone did?

A Study Of

Lexington Integration

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the last in the series of articles dealing with problems of integration in Lexington.

By LEE STINNETT

The most touchy problem in Lexington race relations is segregation of hotels, restaurants, and recreation facilities.

This we-love-the-but-don't-want-toeat-with-them attitude is the most sensitive issue to the Negro. This is because segregation in restaurants is so open, so abvious, and-to Negroes —so ill-founded on reasonable grounds.

A random telephone sorvey was conducted on the local restaurants. Of the 41 restaurants called, nine said Negroes were served without any discrimination. Of these nine, five were in predominately Negro sections. Two of the remaining lour restamants refused service to UK Negro students who tried to cat.

The hotels seem worried about a decrease in white business if they serve Negroes. Movie theaters have been pregrated for about a year. Some bowlers and skit as Ticks aic > _1 _ d al

Nobody wants another Birmingham situation in Lexington.

All the Negroes I talked to preferred to work peacefully rather than violently.

Lexington is not a city of the deep-South as much as her Southern qualities are played up. There never has been a great social chasm between whites and Negroes in this

Also the Negro population has steadily decreased in proportion to the white. In 1870 Fayette County was nearly half Negro. Today it is only 15 percent.

This Lexington whites have no fears of immediate immerical dominatton-political or social-of Negroes, as well may be the case in Mississippi and Alabama.

And since education seems to be the crucial factor in the Negro's social and conomic position. Lexitation Negross on soon see the benefits of 10 v as a tegral on of schools
